Increasing global regulatory compliance and the complexity of global trade are pressing organizations to have better control over how they manage customer and vendor contracts. By combining deep legal and technology expertise with the power of analytics, Contract Analytics helps legal teams efficiently improve contractual efficacy and compliance.

By integrating proven people, process, and technology, Contract Analytics can identify and capture important information, including terms, pricing, renewal dates, and entities, and then convert the information into structured data. Then, suggestions for redlines and repapering can be made, with the use of human review to further assess accuracy and subsequent contract changes.

CASE STUDY:

Over 92% Cost Savings Reviewing Contracts for Large Chemical Manufacturer Merger

The Issue

A global chemical manufacturer faced an anti-competitive practices inquiry by the European Commission and needed to quickly understand obligations within 30,000 active contracts.

Our Approach

Consilio was retained to assist this client and quickly engaged with an analytics platform tool to conduct intake and analysis of the 30,000 contract documents. Over 12 languages were identified using primary language analytics to define and prioritize downstream reviews. Specific terms and timelines of potential interest were identified and promoted for in-depth review. Consilio review professionals then engaged to drive manual review of the analytics-assisted population of contracts.

The Result

With Consilio's assistance, our client clearly understood their contractual obligations with regard to navigating the European Commission's inquiry. This insight allowed our client to divest interest in the conflicting business unit in order to better conform to the EC's regulations. Consilio delivered over 92% cost savings for Contract Analytics & Review services over Client's own outside counsel bid.
